(*) CADIM

Centro de Adestramento da Ilha da Marambaia (Marambaia Island Dressage Center).

It is located on “Ilha da Marambaia” (Marambaia Island), at western end of "Restinga da Marambaia" (Marambaia Sandbank), long and narrow strip of sand that stretches for 45 km, east-west oriented. The relief is quite flat, and its monotony is broken only at the west end, an area belonging to the Navy, where is the highest point called "Pico da Marambaia" (“Marambaia” Hill), wich is 480 meters above sea level.

In addition to being a military area, it is also an ecological paradise with rich fauna and flora in area of preserved vegetation cover, reason it was stablished as an Environmental Protection Area.

Historic

In colonial Brazil, the region of "Marambaia" (in the indigenous language “siege of the sea”) was visited by privateers who stocked up on food and kept their ships protected from bad weather. In the second half of 19th century, during the imperial period, was installed a warehouse center for slaves from Africa.

Support for the local civilian population

In addition to the military garrison, there is a community of descendants of former slaves, to which the Navy provides medical and social support, as well as transport to the mainland.
